War Research

In war the advantage is on the side with the best weapons. The work of scientists in America's research laboratories, developing new materials and new equipment, means a lot to our fighting men.

1. It takes years to build up and equip a large, organized, and able staff for research. Fortunately, industry did this long ago.

2. Long before Pearl Harbor, laboratories like General Electric's were setving their country—solving technical problems of war.

3. History repeats! In the last war "wireless" was developed for military needs—to become, with peace, a giant broadcasting industry.

4. So it will be this time. Research will help to win the war, and its many wartime discoveries will help to build a better future.

General Electric believes that its first duty as a good citizen is to be a good soldier!

Dairy Production Climbing Steadily

Fluid Milk Consumption In Cities Is Still Off

Combined production of cheese, creamery butter, and condensed and evaporated milk in the United States in 1941 exceeded the 1940 output by 7 per cent. The January, 1942, production of these dairy foods was 9.6 per cent greater than in January, 1941, according to Ohio State university rural economists.

The 1942 production goals for dairy products call for approximately 12 per cent greater production than was obtained in 1941. The required increase in cheese and concentrated milk can be secured by a 7 per cent increase in all manufactured dairy products, as some of the total production is shifted from creamery butter to the concentrated forms.

Need Will Be Met.

Creamery butter made up approximately 70 per cent of all manufactured dairy products in 1941, so any significant diversion of milk from the manufacture of butter will meet the needs for more milk to be made into cheese or to be condensed or evaporated. The production of dried milk in 1941 was less than the 1940 production, but a larger share of the total was prepared for human consumption.

The consumption of fluid milk in cities has increased at the rate expected. Increased payrolls and adequate quantities of milk available do not induce urban citizens to consume the amount of milk needed for adequate diets.

Rural economists believe that the best interests of the dairy industry at present require a definite policy as to price and of quantities of products to be purchased and stored, if increased production is to be maintained at the least expenditure of productive facilities.

Tractor Trouble Advice

If the farm tractor lacks pep, better check up on valves and valve mechanism. If the valve is rebound on each compression stroke when the engine is cranked slowly, the valves are closing properly. Lack of compression means waste of fuel and loss of power.

Sticky Valves.

Lack of compression in the farm tractor may be caused by sluggish or sticky engine valves. Engineers say this cause of power and fuel waste can often be remedied with a little kerosene. Start the engine, and after it has idled a while apply kerosene to the valve stems so that it works down between the stems and the guides.

Adjusting Discs.

To prevent overloading the farm tractor, adjust the size of discs and disc plows to the power of tractors. If less draft is desired, the width of cut may be reduced or one or more discs may be removed. In operating in hard ground, weights should be used at the rear and front furrow wheels rather than on top of the frame or beam.

Leaves Show Soil Needs

Through methods developed by horticulturists at the Pennsylvania State college it may be possible in the future to determine the soil requirements of crops by foliar or leaf diagnosis.

For instance, plants may become sickly as a result of too much of a certain fertilizing material in relation to the supply of others, or because of a shortage of certain other soil foods, according to a bulletin from that university.

Blast Scene of Malta Knights

Inns of Orders That Once Ruled Isle Razed by Nazi Air Raids.

VALLETTA, MALTA.—Many of Malta's most famous and historic buildings, including the palace of the Grand Masters, Auberges, or the Inn of Knights, and the Grand Building of Knights where Napoleon stayed after his capture of the island from the Knights of St. John in 1798, have been either destroyed or badly damaged in the Germans' nonstop air raids against the island.

Not one of the magnificent buildings of the Knights of St. John has escaped destruction or damage. The Auberge of Italy, which was of late a museum, the Auberges of France and of the Auvergne are now mounds of stone debris, in contrast to their former palatial exteriors.

The Military Hospital of Knights, with its 220-foot-long ward, stated to be the longest hall in Europe, has been badly damaged. The Royal Opera house and the principal Maltest club, where distinguished visitors to the island were entertained, have been destroyed.

Skyline Is Changed.

The skyline of Valletta has been changed as many church spires and belfreys are missing and jagged edges and gaps among the buildings are visible everywhere.

Among the churches either damaged or destroyed were St. Ursula, St. James, St. Barbara, St. Francis, the Jesuits church, All Souls and St. Paul's Anglican cathedral.

Almost every square in the city and its suburbs is pitted with bomb craters. Statues of the Grand Masters with drawn swords guarding the city gates have been smashed. Hundreds of homes, offices and shops have also been devastated, and in Floriana, the principle suburb of Valletta, very few buildings are left.

The dome of the Musta church, known as the third largest dome in the world, was pierced by a bomb, but it failed to explode.

The largest number of fatalities yet suffered in a single day was when bombs fell on a crowded movie theater and Malta's principal

The ceremony was performed at the home of the officiating minister, Rev. W. R. Reed, pastor of Memorial Methodist church.

The bride is a graduate of the State Teachers College, Farmville, and for the past several years has been teaching in the Appomattox county schools.

After a short wedding trip, Mrs. Martin will make her home with her father, while Sergeant Martin is stationed at Fort Story, Va.

NEW YORK. — Because he wouldn't let her make a U-turn, Traffic Patrolman James McCullough said Mrs. Margaret Osborne, 45 years old, a writer, called him "a dirty louse."

In court, facing a disorderly conduct charge, Mrs. Osborne said:

"I want to refute the statement that I called the patrolman a dirty louse. I called him a louse."

Asked by Magistrate Peter Abeles if she would apologize, Mrs. Osborne looked at Patrolman McCullough and demanded:

"How much will the fine be?"

"Five dollars," said the magistrate.

"I'll pay the fine," said the lady.

Smaller 5,000-ton vessels on order total 18. Keels for more than 50 merchant ships have been laid. These, of course, are in addition to the several hundred naval vessels built and in course of construction, which include corvettes, minesweepers, patrol boats, base ships and a number of heavy destroyers.

B. G. Anderson New Member of Draft Board; Replaces C. W. Smith, Who Resigned as Member

RESIGNS FROM DRAFT BOARD

C. W. Smith, member of the Selective Service Board of Appomattox County, has submitted his resignation as a member of the board, his services ending as of Tuesday morning of this week.

Governor Darden has recommended, and Selective Service officials have appointed B. G. Anderson, to succeed Mr. Smith on the board. Mr. Anderson qualified Tuesday morning. Other members of the board are: C. Kendall Hunter, chairman, and H. C. Pulliam, secretary.

Mr. Smith stated that the press of his duties as county clerk made it impossible for him to continue the time-consuming responsibility as a member of the draft board. During service as a board member, Mr. Smith rendered faithful and patriotic service. The responsibilities of the draft board have been constantly increased with the stepping up of the tempo of inductions into the armed forces of the country, and the Appomatto draft board has won and merited the respect and confidence of the citizens of the county for able administration of the important tasks placed in its hands.

Mr. Anderson, new member of the board, is one of the most highly esteemed citizens of Appomattox county. A former county agent, a prominent churchman, and a successful farmer and business man, he makes a sacrifice of his time in order to serve his country in this capacity. His acceptance of this responsibility will meet with wide favor in the county. The draft board is faced with meeting heavy quotas of men in the next few months, and it is a source of satisfaction to the people of the county to know that the county board has and does contain outstanding citizens to faithfully represent both the interests of the Government and of registrants.

Navy Hopes to Make Quota

Richmond, July 29.- Lieut. Frank Duffy, assistant commander of the Navy Recruiting Station here, expressed confidence that Virginia would not be found lacking when final figures were compiled in the drive to recruit more than 2,000 Naval volunteers for the Lee Regiment during the month.

With their goal more than half reached, Naval officials expressed their belief that young Virginians would more than live up to the heritage handed down to them by their illustrious predecessors and the goal of a Virginia regiment for the Navy would be more than reached when final figures were compiled on Saturday of this week.

More than 1,000 members of the Lee Volunteers will be sworn in at a mass Induction ceremony in Richmond next Saturday, at which time Governor Darden will dedicate the model of the famous Confederate ironclad "The Merrimac" now under construction on the streets of Richmond. The new "Merrimac" will serve as a recruiting office for the Navy for the duration, Lieutenant Duffy stated.

TOBACCO MARKETS

Tobacco marketing centers of the Old Belt will be required to deliver a portion of their auction space to meet shortage of storage facilities for the Golden Weed caused by the damming up of reserves caused by the closing of normal export outlets due to the war.

Prepare For Salvage Drive in County

An intensive drive to collect all available scrap metal for the war effort will begin August 6, as part of a nation-wide campaign.

R. B. Hudgins, county agent, is chairman of the Appomattox county committee. He called a committee meeting last night to shape up plans for the drive. A feature of the effort will be a "Junk Rally" for the county one week-end during August.

Bicycle Quota of 8 For August

The Appomattox War Price and Ration Board has received notice that the county quota of bicycles for August will be eight. The July quota was 4. Two permits have already been issued during July, and two other applications are on file awaiting action at the board meeting tomorrow. If these two are issued, the local board will have used its full July quota. Applications may be filed with the board at any time for a permit to buy a bicycle. The August quota of eight must be used up during August and cannot be added to the September quota. The ration board will gladly furnish those interested with a list of eligibility for bicycle permits.

Traffic Deaths in Va. Show Marked Decline

GAS TAX COLLECTIONS

Gasoline tax collections in Virginia in the first half of 1942 dropped off almost a million dollars from the previous year. The loss was largely attributed to gasoline rationing and tire shortages.

Traffic deaths for the first half of 1942 were 24 per cent less than in 1941, the Department of State Police said this week in releasing preliminary figures. In the first six months of 1942 there were 352 deaths reported in Virginia, and in 1941 there were 463, or a decrease of 111.

Travel by motor vehicle in the State fell off in the period by 8 per cent, so the mileage death rate fell only 17 per cent, from 16.4 in 1941 to 13.5 in 1942. This figure of 13.5 represents the lowest mileage death rate for Virginia for many years, however, and indicates that travel is relatively much safer even in view of the reduced amount of traffic.

Major C. W. Woodson, Jr., Superintendent of State Police, said, in commenting on these figures, "We are naturally very well pleased by this reduction, since it indicates a gain for safety, and the saving of 111 lives. We hope every Virginian will cooperate in holding this gain by driving with care and courtesy."

GOVERNOR TO STUDY EVILS OF FARM TENANCY PLAN

Governor Darden last week moved to name a commission to study the matter of postwar action to offset the evils of the State's farm tenancy problem. Believing this to be one of the worst curses of Virginia's agricultural economy, the Governor expressed hope that a time would be reached when all who will may be able to own farms of their own and be taught the art of living from the good earth once again.

The General Assembly, he said, may not be ready to go into the problem as completely as the problem deserves but he had an idea that some time in the future, the Legislature may agree to the establishment of a revolving fund, that could be used to help deserving persons procure a bit of land they might call their own.

Such a fund might parallel the literary fund, a fund set aside by the Constitution to be used in making loans to localities for the purpose of building schools. The fund is now in the neighborhood of a million. The Governor is considering. He plans, he said, to appoint a commission to study the whole problem.

Predicts Fuel Shortage

Richmond, July 29.- Governor Colgate Darden, Jr. in this week calling attention of the people of Virginia to the coal situation and in connection with this has made public a letter from Harold L. Ickes, Secretary of the Interior. Mr. Ickes says "There are indications that the public is not fully aware of the seriousness of the fuel situation, and a great many people are not taking the precautions that are now possible, in order to protect themselves from any emergency that might occur later." As Coordinator of Petroleum and Solid Fuels for War, Mr. Ickes states "Although people will have sufficient coal next winter if they order it now and store it before that time, there is no reason for anyone to feel secure about his coal supply if he fails to take such precautions. I am urging that all users of fuel oil in the Eastern Seaboard States who can convert from oil to coal to do so immediately, and place orders for their coal now, while it can still be supplied."

Miss Russell to Conduct Revival

A series of evangelistic services will begin at Mt. Comfort church on Sunday morning at 11:15 and continue for two weeks, preaching Sunday both morning and night, and throughout the week each night at 8 o'clock.

Miss Lillian Russell, the popular lady evangelist, of Richmond, Virginia will do the preaching.

Miss Russell has conducted the revival at Mt. Comfort church for the past three years, and returns this year at the unanimous request of the official board of that church.

Virginia has not only stemmed its loss of native-born population to other states, but during the last two years has gained as much in population as during the previous 10-year period.

EGG PRODUCTION

A check of figures included in a preliminary report of the gasoline rationing now in effect shows that in Appomatox county approximately 86 per cent of passenger car owners have only the basic "A" ration books, and therefore can purchase only an average of four gallons of gasoline per week. Less than six per cent of passenger car owners have "C" books, and most of the "C" book holders are doctors, mail carriers and ministers.

The report made to the State OPA July 23rd, was as follows:

Basic "A" books, 1,036

"B" books, 85

"C" books, 54.

The local board has a stack of thirty or forty applications for supplemental gas rations awaiting action at this week's meeting. Thus far, the board has been impressed with the general feeling that owners here to try to make their "A" books do. In the earlier card gas rationing, two thirds of local motorists had supplemental cards.

For truck use, the local board has issued:

129 "S-1" books, and

78 "S-2" books.

A number of truck ration applications are awaiting action.

For non-highway use, the following have been issued:

69 "E" books, and

126 "R" books.

No gas can be put into an automobile fuel tank save by the service station attendant tearing a stamp from the A, B or C book issued for that particular vehicle.

FUTURE HOME-MAKERS OF VIRGINIA ARE ORGANIZED

Similiar groups have been organized in other Southern states, it was revealed. The new organization for girls will be patterned after the Future Farmers of America, an organization for boys enrolled in Vocational Agricultural studies.
